Strong Attack

Wage-Hour Law Coverage Opposed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Republican and Southern Democratic senators battling Sen. John F. Kennedy's minimum wage bill centered their attack today on its broad extension of wage-hour law

This feature of the bill sponsored by the Democratic presidential nominee has aroused far more opposition than the provision to boost the present $1 an hour minimum wage to $1.25.

The measure would bring work ers in retail and service enterprises under the law for the first time, accounting for the great bulk of the additional five million employes to whom coverage would be extended.

Dear Mother: The emphasis on winning is one symptom of the sickness of our time. The whole world loves a winner. But victory must never be so important that any and all meas- OVER PAR-

It's also useful to learn how to accept the fact that others may be MORE excellent, but to do one's best regardless, and not go to pieces when we find ourselves outclassed. This is the REAL value of competition.

Love In Bloom

Dear Ann: I met a swell guy at a dance three months ago. We've been going steady ever since and I know for certain we're in love.

The trouble is, we want to get married but we aren't of age. When we asked our parents to sign for us they raised Cain and told us we were crazy.

We have tried to follow your advice. There are an awful lot of teen-agers who are having trouble controlling themsleves, so please print some more advice in the paper. It's tough to be young and in love.-MARYANNE.

Dear Maryanne: If you think it's tough to be young and in love, let me tell you it's an awful lot tougher to be pregnant and not married.

There's a lot passing for love these days that is pure chemistry. I suggest you double and triple date, have a planned program instead of just riding around and steer clear of lonely roads and out-of-the-way places. Self-control can spell the difference between a life of contentment and a premature, unwanted disastrous marriage.

What Is Ahead for Cuba?

There are increasingly frequent reports these days that many Cubans are beginning to see through the smoke screen fanned by Fidel Castro's marathon tirades against the United States. Along with the reports come increasingly frequent predictions, some by highly reliable sources, that the Castro regime will not last out the year.

Lest this set Americans to rejoicing over the imminent collapse of a foreign conspiracy threatening the solidarity of the Western Hemisphere, it is wise to consider whether the disappearance of Castro from the Cuban scene would guarantee a reversal of the Communist trend there.

"DIVIDE AND CONQUER" is a strategy as old as history itself. It has been used as a matter of course by totalitarianists, including the Communist variety. And evidence aplenty that this is what has been going on In Cuba is presented in an article written by a correspondent who returned recently from four months in the Castro corner.

He emphasizes that the vast majority of Cubans supported and still support the basic goals of the original Castro revolution. Only an insignificant few want to return to anything resembling the era of Batista. But, the writer adds, this solidarity of purpose has been seriously hampered by the negative aspect of the Castro technique. The article includes this significant paragraph:

"Families, marriages and friendships have been split. There are revolutionary sons and counter - revolutionary fathersin deed and spirit. There are 'Fidelista' wives and 'anti-Fidelista' husbands. There are lifelong friends who no longer speak to each other because the revolution has come between them. There is fear, suspicion and distrust, and in what these are doing to Cubans - a nation of charming and good-natured people - lies one of the great tragedies of the revolution."

WHAT THIS MEANS is that the way may have been paved - through a division of Cubans on the methods - for ambitious power-seekers to call for a renewed rally around the revolution's ends, which most Cubans sup-

This does not mean Cubans will necessarily get the ends they desire. They might find themselves rid not only of Fidel Castro but also of any real possibility of achieving true

History may show eventually that Fidel Castro was only a pawn in a master scheme, albeit an apparent willing pawn.

It is an ominous prospect for the United States as well as for Cuba. But it is not without precedent in the Communist code.

Ah There, Friend Armstrong-Jones

As long as it was permitted ever editorralist to rhapsodize about the love match between the commoner and the princess, there is the same privilage to moralize about the trouble the Armstrong-Joneses have had with their butler, Thomas Cronin,

Cronin out the other day in a butleresque huff. Pressed for details, he first backed off, then, perhaps to spike rumors of something worse than the truth, admitted he and his master had not been able to see ee to eye on household management.

Cronin's experience in some of the best establishmets had made it plain to him that no servant can serve two masters and therefore the butler must be the master of the servants while the master of the house is master of, well, the house. But since the butler also runs the traise, that leaves the master at loose ends.

Antony Armstrong-Jones boggled at being thus sidetracked in his own house. On his side of the tracks, the master runs both the house and the servants, if any. He hires and pays them. He is monarch of all he surves. He is in his own castle and king of his own mountain. Hence, he and his butler could not see eye to ee.

In short, commoner Jones had not been "to the manor born," as we prefer to believe the phrase was intended to be, and he was as hard put to get the hang o. gracious living as any of the rest of us would have been if we had married legal princesses instead of the real thing and lived happily ever after.

Showdown at Guantanamo

With the Cuban government's program of expropriation of privately-held foreign property now virtually completed, the big question that remains is whether Castro & Co. is going o try to take over the huge United States naval base on Guantanamo Bay.

That would seem to be the next logical step for the bearded ones to take in their hate-the-Yankees campaign. But, in a fashion typical of their Kremlin mentors, they refuse to be pinned down.

Raul Castro said in Athens recently that no effort would be made to take the base. But Fidel Castro told a cheering throng Sunday that his government would not be bound by any previous treaties, a broad hint that the United States lease on the base territory would have no legal standing in Havana if and when the revolutionists decide to try to drive the United States out.

What this adds up to is confirmation that the showdown between the United States and communism in the Western Hemisphere may be centered on the Guantar amo base. The enforcement of a contract drawn in good faith generally lies with the injured party. Although the Guantanamo agreement might have no legal standing in Havana, it certainly does in Washington and in international law, and the United States could use force to provent a breach of the treaty with every legal justifi-which the Castro people are testing before making their move.

Since the Guantanamo base, employing thousands of Cubans, is a large factor in the Cuban economy, seizure of it by the Castro regime could be the broken straw that finally rouses the growing middle-class disillusionment with the revolutionists to another re-

Or efforts to seize the base might be the act that would convince other Latin American governments that Castro & Co. is a threat to the entire hemisphere, which would solidify their support behind United States action to quell the threat.

Chances are the showdown over Guantanamo will not come soon, if it comes at all. It seems more likely that the naval base will become to the Castro regime what West Berlin has become to the Russians and the East Germans: a source of irritation to be used for periodic promotion of international

There are those who insist that only money earned by his own sweat enobles a man and gives him character. But this is for most of us a terribly tedious way to build either cash or character, and sometimes we wind up without much of either.

Besides, earned money isn't nearly as much fun to spend as given money.

Show me a self-made millionaire and, in most ses, I'll show you a man with a padlock on his pocketbook who spends with a limited sense of joy because he is too aware of how much toil and lost sleep his money cost him. What he really enjoys more is bragging about how poor he was as a youth, and how many sacrifices he had to make to become rich. He has become a moneyed martyr.

But show me a man who has inherited a million dollars, and I'll show you a man who will ge five million dollars worth of mileage ou t of his fortune. Spared the agony of having had to earn it, he finds double pleasure in every dollar he spends ent Premier has lost wha ever influence he might have had for the cause of peace by his boorish and insulating tactics at the "summit" conference in Paris last May.

As a practical matter, no American President, Republican or Democratic, will venture in the future to sit down with Nikita Khrushchev. He has insulted not only the President of the United States but the man who happens to have led the Allied forces that saved the Russian people from Naxi conquest in World War II. Today Khrushchev stands out as the enemy of his own people a destructive influence in world affairs that can only mean increasing hardships for the Soviet people. They have to give more and more of their labor to armament for war, thus losing the benefits of a higher standard of living. They are deprived of their freedoms because of the Khrushchev dictatorship, which has attempted to justify such restrictions on the ground that an international emergency requires austerity and the giving up of everything, including freedom of the individual.

KHRUSHCHEV'S big blunder was his miscalculation in the field of diplomacy. He came to America in the autumn of 1959 and gave the world the impression that the critical issues between the East and West could be settled or at least be kept from involving the world in a nuclear war.

He placed emphasis on personal conference and consultations. Even many skeptics inside the United States were compelled for the moment to adopt a wait-andsee attitude and to go along with work out agreements at a "summit" conference or at the sessions at Geneva of such groups as the disarmament commission.

But this whole trend was suddenly reversed by Nikita Khrushchev, who used the U-2 incident as an excuse. The record shows that Russia has since shot down an American plane over international

If there had been no U-2 incident. what would Moscow have said if the President had refused to continue to meet with Nikita Khrushchev now because of the latest plane episode? The fact is that, if the heads of government really desire to make settlements on any outstanding issues, disputes over the flights of reconnaissance planes need not be an obstacle. But the Soviet Premier, by his attitude toward President Eisenhower, has made further conferences out of the question. Nor can Nixon or Kennedy fraternize with Khrushchev. THE AMERICAN people not only would strongly disapprove of it but they wouldn't put any faith in Khrushchev's signature or his spoken word. So, for all practical purposes.

there can be no "entente" or basis for agreement between the East and West so long as Nikita Khrushchev is the head of the Soviet government. The sooner the Russian people come to understand that they need a new ambassador-at-large to replace the Soviet Premier, the faster will the world be able to come to some agreement on limitation of arms and measures to prevent a nuclear war. For today one man - Nikita

Khrushchev - threatens the peace of the world, and the innocent victims inevitably would include the people of the Soviet Union. They have the power by concerted action to force Khrushchev out of iffice and to choose a ruler in whom the West will have con-If Khrushchev comes here in September - in the midst of our presidential campaign - he is due for some surprises.

He may think he will be embarrassing both party candidates. Actually, they would not hesitate to denounce the reckless disregard of human rights by the Communists dictatorship not only in the Soviet Union but in the captive states.

There are references in both platforms to the tragic plight of the satellite countries. Mr. Khrushchev will be better advised to stay home. New York Herald Tribune a presidential year is to explain the two-party system to young voters, who learn no more about this reality in their schooling than they learn about the realities of the economic system that feeds clothes and educates them. People who wince at the contempt shown and expressed for mixed-up Congolese making a mess of their fredom would do well to review things said about Americans, Frenchmen, Irishmen and Negroes in the United States when freedom was brand new and they made a mess of it.

I like this opening statement in a letter from a friend who moved away and hadn't written for a long time: "I'll bet you thought I had forgotten you. Well, I had."

As a non-swimmer and nonboat owner, I shiver when I think of the unmanageable risks that millions of Americans incur whenever their feet take them off dry land. They would be safer delivering nitro in the oil fields of New Mexico in a springless wagon.

I think it is absurd for a political party with a warm spot in its heart for old Harry Truman to complain about the rough-house political tactics of the opposition.

A possibility I dread is running over with a rotary mower one of the toads that keep down the insect census and with this in mind I leave whole sections of lawn unmowed if the presence of a toad is suspected

For nearly a year, someone has been leaving contributions of old-fashioned horehound candy on my desk, to help refill the candy jar kept there. Besides being grateful, I am fascinated by the whippersnappers in the department who do not even know what horehound candy is - also by the old-timers who haven't seen it for a long time and take to it like cats to catnip. Lee's Corn Cutter & Creamer

The only known method for obtaining a truly CREAM STYLE corn The skin of the kernel actually remains on the cob. The rough skin of the kernel — which keeps a lot of people from eating corn — is almost entirely eliminated. If you prefer a WHOLE KERNEL all you have to do is make an easy adjustment according to instructions on each package and you have a uniformly and cleanly cut WHOLE KERNEL (not into the cob one time and half the kernel the next). A few easy strokes to each ear and you have a product unexcelled. You can SEE and TASTE the difference.
